WHY CORS IS COMING WITH BROWSER NOT POSTMAN

👉 CORS is enforced by browsers, not by servers and not by Postman

- 🌐 Browser → blocks response ❌
- 📬 Postman → shows response ✅

🚀 Why Browser shows CORS error

Browsers follow Same-Origin Policy (SOP) for security.
Example:
Your setup:

- Frontend: http://localhost:4200
- Backend: http://localhost:8000

👉 These are different origins → CORS kicks in

🔐 What browser does internally

Before sending actual request, browser may send:

```
OPTIONS /api
```

This is called preflight request

Then it checks response headers:

```
Access-Control-Allow-Origin
Access-Control-Allow-Credentials
```

👉 If invalid → ❌ browser blocks response

📬 Why Postman works

Postman is not a browser

👉 It:

- ❌ Does NOT enforce Same-Origin Policy
- ❌ Does NOT block responses
- ❌ Does NOT care about CORS headers

So even if backend sends wrong headers:

```
Access-Control-Allow-Origin: *
```

👉 Postman still shows response ✅

🔥 Real Difference

Feature	Browser	Postman
Enforces CORS	✅ Yes	❌ No
Blocks response	✅ Yes	❌ No
Sends preflight	✅ Yes	❌ No
Security sandbox	✅ Yes	❌ No

⚠️ Important Insight

👉 CORS is not a backend error

👉 It's a browser security feature

Your API is actually working fine — browser is just refusing to give you the response.

💡 Analogy

Think of it like:

- 🏦 Backend = Bank
- 👮 Browser = Security guard
- 📬 Postman = VIP bypass

👉 Bank gives money to both

👉 But browser (guard) says:

"Origin not allowed ❌"

🛠 When you must fix CORS

You only need to fix CORS when:

- Frontend (Angular/React) calls backend

You DON'T need to fix CORS for:

- Postman
- Backend-to-backend calls
- Curl / scripts

🚀 Pro Debug Tip

If:

- Postman ✅ works
- Browser ❌ fails

👉 99% it's a CORS config issue

⚡ Bonus (your earlier error connection)

You had:

Credential is not supported if Access-Control-Allow-Origin is '*'

👉 Browser blocked it

👉 Postman didn't care

✅ Final takeaway

CORS exists only in browsers for user security. Postman bypasses it entirely.
